Hamburgh, February 7. Letters from the Frontiers of Hungary ſay, that the Plague continues to rage in Boſnia, and mention the Precautions taken to prevent its ſpreading, by exacting a ſtrict Performance of double Quarantine of all Perſons and Effects coming from that Port into her Imperial Majeſty's Dominions.

As the Rains continue here almoſt inceſſantly, the Floods are far from decreaſing; ſo that Travelling becomes daily more difficult; and our Correſpondence from all Quarters remains interrupted.

Hague, February 14. Accounts have been received here, of the ſafe Arrival of her Royal Highneſs the Hereditary Princeſs of Brunſwick, with his moſt Serene Highneſs the Prince, at Loo on Saturday laſt, and at Twickel on Sunday; ſo that it is thought their Highneſſes will have been able to get forward, notwithſtanding the Floods, which ſo terribly incommode this Part of Europe. All poſſible Honours, as well Civil as Military, have been ſhewn to the Prince and Princeſs, wherever they have paſſed in the Territories of their High Mightineſſes.
